While writing the script I should have used `'\r'` to terminate the line printing, before the `"}"` but I don't know why it was printed to the console. I need to check that part of my script, and fix it, then it will be very helpful A: You have to tell Perl to print to the `IO::Handle` object. In the context of your script, that can be done by: `say $io;` Also, the print statements in your code are not terminating the line, you need to add `a` at the end of each line. But the more important question is why do you expect your script to print anything? Your script is running a command-line program called `script.pl`, not your Perl program.

Biodiversity on a Pacific Island is being threatened by logging and tourism
19 June 2011 - Banana Tree, Cossack, Hapsacas, Tree Fungi
Nearly a third of the banana trees on the remote Pacific island of Moorea have died in a recent epidemic that is devastating the island's native flora and fauna, according to a French research team. The banana die-off has been caused by logging of the native subtropical rainforest, says the research team from France's University of Montpellier. It says the logging at the Abaiang Park forest on the island's northern coast has led to a rapid depletion of biodiversity, due to the logging company allowing indiscriminate road construction through the adjacent forest. The researchers say this has left the forest stripped of its original flora, leading to the introduction of alien, non-native, plants, which are damaging the island's flora and fauna. The logging company has imposed strict restrictions, but it has still been clear the logging is coming. At the same time, tourist numbers are rising, with 44,000 visits to the island in 2009. The director of the National Park of Moorea, Philippe Zardelli, who has been warning the government about the damage caused by the logging, said there were 3,000 hectares of forest on the island, half of which had already been lost. "The intertidal zone has also been heavily impacted", he said. "It used to be home to a rich assemblage of endemic species, due to the area's abundance of an
